Silk (Raw / Brocade)	Corded Alençon, Zari, Venise	Line inside hem with satin to protect skin.	Stretchy knitted tricot, casual crochet
Satin / Charmeuse	Chantilly, Corded lace, Venise	Use microtex needles; avoid rough reverse.	Rough metallic burrs, heavy stiff crochet
Georgette	Embroidered net, Raschel, Chantilly	Back with satin facing (patti) for weight support.	Ultra-heavy Guipure without hem tape
Chiffon	Lightweight Chantilly, Kiran fringe	Keep lace weight strictly <50 g/m².	Heavy cotton crochet, dense Venise lace

Linen	100% Cotton Crochet, Torchon, Leno	Pre-shrink thoroughly; twin-needle stitch.	High-shine polyester lurex, stretch lace

3. FOUR-STEP RAPID CLIENT DIAGNOSTIC PROTOCOL

Execute these four questions in strict chronological order during any customer inquiry to pinpoint the exact product nomination:

Step 1: Identify Garment & Sector

Determine exact garment classification (e.g. Saree Blouse, Denim Shorts, Bralette).

Step 2: Pinpoint Placement Zone

Confirm where lace will attach (Neckline, Sleeve Cuff, Hemline, Side Seam, Center Placket).

Step 3: Verify Base Fabric & Stretch

Identify base fabric composition and check if application requires rigid stability or 4-way stretch.

Step 4: Check Skin Contact & Laundering

Verify whether lace touches bare skin (infant, lingerie) or outer hem, and confirm domestic/commercial wash frequency.

4. EMERGENCY SEWING & DEFECT TROUBLESHOOTING CHEAT SHEET

Symptom / Problem	Root Cause	Immediate 60-Second Production Fix
Seam puckers along lace line	Differential feeding tension / thread too tight	Increase differential feed to 1.2; loosen needle thread tension; use walking foot.
Small holes along seam in lace	Blunt or oversized needle piercing filaments	Replace needle immediately with fine Ballpoint 75/11 (knits) or Microtex 60/8 (sheers).
Scallop rolls inward after pressing	Over-stretching scallop header during sewing	Reduce presser foot pressure; pat with iron soleplate, do not drag.
Customer reports itchy neck	Exposed metallic burrs or coarse monofilament	Underlay lace border with soft 1-inch satin or silk organza facing tape (patti).
Lace shrinks after washing	Un-shrunk cotton lace on pre-shrunk garment	Steam-press with heavy moisture; mandate pre-washing for all future cotton rolls.
